New Opening Exercises.

BY PROF. C. H. GURNEY.

(Cloth bound, $1.00)

How to open a school each day is a practical question for wide-awake teachers.

Whether the Bible be used or not may be left to the judgment of each teacher, but in any case there ought to be some form of opening exercises.

Says W. N. Hailman: "Undoubtedly one of the most powerful special helps in ethical instruction is the opening exercise. Here the child may learn to study systematically, and to love it. Here its whole being may be attuned ethically for the day's work."

A progressive teacher rose in an association recently and stated that she had completely broken up tardiness by the interest created in the opening exercises.

Prof. Gurney has prepared a book of "Opening Exercises" that will be welcomed by teachers and pupils. It contains a fresh, interesting, profitable and beautiful opening exercise for every day in the year.

There is really a PROGRAM of EXERCISES for each morning, which may be varied or modified by each teacher as occasion requires.

We quote as follows from the Author's preface.

"Every OPENING EXERCISE should be (1) brief, (2) interesting and attractive, (3) appropriate and preparatory to the work of the pupil, (4) educative and elevating—teaching a good lesson."

Beginnings are regarded with much interest. The beginning of each school day should be a matter of constant interest to every teacher. A day well and pleasantly begun is likely to be a pleasant and successful day, and to have a pleasant and successful close. The wide-awake teacher says: 'What shall I have for my next opening exercise.' The routine teacher thinks nothing of the matter.

Opening exercises carefully and judiciously prepared, and wisely conducted, form an important part of a school day. As a part of moral education a good opportunity is presented:

To create favorable impression.

To incite to noble and generous action.

To lead to admiration of pure character, and a desire to attain the same.

Making character study and the virtues the basis of the work, no lack of material need be felt by any energetic and ingenious teacher.

Cloth bound, price $1.00.

Special rates to teachers desiring a quantity for the use of pupils.
